Information

Official stamp issue of the Principality of Liechtenstein

Three motifs from the surroundings of palaces and castles of the Liechtenstein family adorn the new special stamps, which are appearing as part of the popular series on treasures from the Princely Collections. The gouaches by Ferdinand Runk were painted in the early 19th century and were purchased by Prince Johann I at the time. All three show people spending time in the countryside or in parks near the properties.

The first painting shows the large pond in the "Eisgrub Castle Park" (face value: CHF 0.90). With an area of almost 200 hectares, the park features numerous sights, including a magnificent palm house and an impressive minaret. "Lundenburg Castle" (face value: CHF 1.10) was originally a wooden castle that was rebuilt into a two-storey Renaissance palace in 1570. Today, the viewer is struck by the derelict towers, which were deliberately built in the style of an artificial ruin. The third painting is dedicated to a scene in the park with strollers, riders and carriages, in the background of which one can see the Liechtenstein "Schlösschen am Schüttel in the Prater" (face value: CHF 1.80) at Vienna.

Owing to its location on the western slope of the Dreischwestern (Three Sisters) mountain at 786 metres above sea level, Liechtenstein's smallest municipality, measured by its population of 487, offers a fascinating view of the Rhine valley and the Swiss mountains opposite. Well-preserved old wooden houses, some of which are listed, together with the St. Joseph Chapel and the community centre around the Dreischwesternhaus (Three Sisters' House) form the "Village Centre" (face value: CHF 0.90) of Planken.

ipality since 2013 and marks the entrance to the village centre, is also located on Dorfstrasse. Built in 1726, it is one of the oldest properties in Planken and an important historical witness of the rural past. After extensive renovation, it has been shining in new splendour since 2018 and may still be used as a residential house.

The two special stamps are expanding the "Village Views" series to include a third municipality from the Liechtenstein Oberland. Characteristic of the special stamps printed on 12-stamp sheetlets are the black-and-white photographs of the buildings set against a coloured landscape.

Stamp 4.1. – Blockchain Technology from the Principality of Liechtenstein

Official stamp issue of the Principality of Liechtenstein

After the successful launch of the first crypto stamp last year, Philately is continuing its blockchain series with Stamp 4.1 "Equality" (face value: CHF 9.00).

The wet-glue postage stamp contains an SQR code that connects the analogue with the digital world. By scanning the printed SQR code, the collector is taken to a website where he can find the serial number of his personal stamp and learn more about the stamp and the history it contains.

The stamp can be scanned and checked (verified) to ensure it is authentic with the related app. Through the authenticity check, the stamps are uniquely assigned to their owners before they are anchored in a personal data room in blockchain technology. An additional fun factor is the puzzle world included in the app, where users can learn more about the history and rise of the Princely House of Liechtenstein. Both historical events and current topics are covered at the same time. Digital puzzles also bridge the gap between tradition and modernity and are waiting to be solved by the young and old.

Official stamp issue of the Principality of Liechtenstein

Since 1872, a single, almost nine-kilometre-long railway line has run through the Principality on a single track. It is part of the connection between Feldkirch (Austria) and Buchs (Switzerland) via Schaan (Liechtenstein) and is operated jointly by the three countries. In the small country, the stops Schaan-Vaduz, Forst-Hilti and Nendeln are served by regional trains and are used mostly by commuters on their way to work.

The souvenir sheet with the anniversary stamps "150 Years of the Feldkirch-Schaan-Buchs Railway Line" (face value: CHF 1.80) is a unique joint issue by the postal companies of Austria, Liechtenstein and Switzerland. It shows all three special stamps of the neighbouring countries with photographs of different train compositions; in Liechtenstein it is the 4024 series.

In each country, only that country's own stamp is perforated on the souvenir sheet and shows the respective face value. However, a cancelled souvenir sheet with all the face values will also be available.

In addition, the postal companies are organising an anniversary event in Feldkirch on 9 and 10 September 2022, where the stamps will also be cancelled on request.
